NOTES:

Known as "Cilla".

(Information from Pete Maddra) The Smith family were opposed to the marriage of Cilla and Arthur. Apart from her brother Charlie, the rest of the family cut contact with her. According to information from her children, he was "bad" and abandoned the family in the mid 1940s to live with "the other woman" who he had got pregnant.

Prior to 1940, the family had run a grocery shop in Barton-on-Humber. In 1940, they moved into a house at 23 Huntley Drive, Hull. In 1945, Arthur walked out on the rest of the family and took all possessions from the house except for the beds and chairs. The remainder of the family continued to live in the house. After Cilla died in 1984, it continued to be occupied by her son (Bob) and daughter (Dot). In later life, Bob developed dementia and moved into a nursing home. Dot died in 2006 and the home was then sold.
